

James Dawson Global Hose Environmental Policy

James Dawson's Environmental Policy is based upon, and embraces, the principles of the Fenner PLC Environmental Policy Statement.

The Policy is set by the Managing Director, but managing the environmental impact of the company's activities is an integral part of the whole management team's activities, and ranks with equal importance as the profitable operation of the business, product quality, health and safety, and personnel issues.

We at James Dawson are committed to maintain and continually improve our Environmental Management System and to prevent pollution by:

- Employee training and awareness
- Respecting Environmental Legislation and Regulations and abiding by other requirements to which we subscribe
- Continually setting and improving our environmental objectives and targets
- Reviewing and continually improving our environmental performance
- Investing in technology and projects that result in a low environmental impact on bought in materials, manufacturing processes, packaging and distribution methods
- Minimise waste produced throughout all areas of our business
- Assist through awareness, and expect, similar standards to our own, from all associated parties

Upon request, this environmental policy is readily available to the public.

C. Blackford

Managing Director