June 2009

Dear Customer,

NOTIFICATION

Following a comprehensive strategic review James Dawson have decided to consolidate its EPDM manufacturing business at Poynton, Manchester into the main production site at Lincoln, UK.

A new EPDM manufacturing cell is being built within the Lincoln plant and all manufacturing of EPDM products will be transferred to this new facility by the end of August 2009.

The company sees this move as a significant step in meeting the increasing demand for more complex EPDM products from its global customer base.

Please contact the undersigned or your usual sales representative for any additional information you require.

With very best regards,
